

One Life Project: Public Priorities

Program for the evening of Wednesday, July 18, at Bangor Arts Exchange.

Doors open at 5 p.m.

Welcome and introduction

5:30 Moderator Felicia Knight and BDN editor Erin Rhoda welcome attendees and explain the goals of the event.

Community speaker

5:40 Mary Prybylo, president of St. Joseph Healthcare, will describe how the Bangor region has been working to address the opioid epidemic, the challenges that have been overcome, and why it's important to come together.

Attendees set Bangor region priorities

5:50 Felicia will explain the process for discussing regional ideas to address the opioid epidemic: Attendees will open an envelope on their table and each take out a piece of paper, which will have an idea on it. They will then take turns reading their idea out loud and sharing why they think it's important. The tables will discuss. At 6:20 p.m., Felicia will call time, and everyone will stand up to vote.

6:20 Coffee break

Attendees set state priorities

6:30 Felicia will introduce the state policy ideas, and attendees will repeat the process of discussion and voting.

Gubernatorial candidates speak

7 The candidates will explain what they heard at their tables, what they learned, and what they hope to accomplish as governor to address the issue of opioid addiction. They will speak in alphabetical order: Alan Caron, Terry Hayes, Janet Mills and Shawn Moody.

Results and wrap-up

7:20 Felicia will share the results of the voting.

7:25 Lori Dwyer, PCHC president and CEO, will close out the evening by talking about what needs to be done next and her hope for future change.
